Tree on State College Campus Shows Again Its Golden Beauty

The Golden Rain Tree is one of the most ornamental and unusual of the trees which grace our campus. This tree is on the east side of the front walk leading to the Administration Building. It is believed to have been planted as a companion to the Chinese Scholar Tree, which stands opposite it on the west side of the walk.

Future Teachers To Hold Meetings During the Summer

Regularly scheduled meetings of the Future Teachers Association are being held during the summer session on the first and third Wednesdays of each month from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. in the Gold Room of the Student Union.

At the last meeting, the club enjoyed a letter writing party in which they wrote letters to students who will be entering college here in the fall, inviting those interested in the teaching field to join the college chapter of the Future Teachers Association.

Officers for the summer and the following year are: Sidney James, president; Judy Matthews, vice-president; Barbara Crowe, acting secretary during the summer; and Jim Mahony, treasurer.

The next regularly scheduled meeting during the summer will be a program-planning meeting. All other meetings during the summer session will be open for anyone interested in the teaching field. College Regents Approve

Off-Campus Student Teaching

Plans for an experimental program in off campus student teaching by the State College students in the 1956-57 school year have been approved by the Board of Education of Maryville and by the Board of Regents of the College.

The program had been previously agreed upon by the administrators of both the College and the school. Participants in the planning sessions are Dr. J. W. Jones, College president; Dr. Leon Miller, chairman of the department of education, of the College; Supt. Elmer F. Klein, and Principals C. A. Bristow and Frederick Schneider, Maryville.

To Be Limited Program

The program, as set up, will be limited in several ways. The public school teaching personnel will be jointly selected, from those who volunteer, by the administrators of the public school and the College director of student teaching. The teaching block at the elementary level will be aimed at a half

The scripture and opening prayer of the assembly program, to be offered by Frances Blazer, will be followed by the introduction of platform guests and announcements by Virginia Frazier, who will also introduce the speaker. Afterwards Frieda Elwick will present the "Missouri Mule." Speaker for the assembly will be Miss Lois Edinger, of Whitesville, North Carolina, vice-president of the Department of Classroom Teachers, National Education Association.

Luncheon Program Is On Agenda

Following the assembly program, a luncheon will be held, the theme of which will be "Public Education—Our Democratic Heritage." The program for the luncheon includes: Invocation by Martha Martin; Stunt by Bob Skait, treasurer, St. Joseph Classroom Teachers Association; "This 'N' That" by Miss Lois Edinger; music; and announcements by Virginia Frazier.

The Golden Rain Tree appears to be in bloom throughout the summer. In early June, large panicles of golden-yellow blossoms appear for about three weeks. Next the fruit, bright yellow-green seed capsules, appears. By August, the seed capsules have turned brown.

Although this species is rather short-lived, the tree on this campus is more than eighteen years old. Used as an ornamental tree in this area, the Golden Rain Tree can withstand hot winds and drought.

The biological name of the Golden Rain Tree is Koeleruteria paniculata. Koeleruteria paniculata is one of five species of Koeleruteria found in China and Japan.

Cole Porter's Melodies To Be Featured Tonight

"Night and Day," a warmly human film biography of the popular songsmith, Cole Porter, is the movie to be shown Wednesday, June 20, at 7:15 in the Bearcats' Den.

The story is of a youth with songwriting talent who annoys his wealthy grandfather by leaving his Yale lawbooks. Moreover, he falls into domestic "hot water" by neglecting his pretty wife for his fascinating work.

Monty Wooley carries the bulk of the comedy and is joined by other stars Cary Grant, Jane Wyman, Genie Sims, and Mary Martin.

day block and on the secondary level at a minimum of one period, but preferably two consecutive periods.

During the time the students are off-campus participating in the student-teaching program they will be responsible for adjusting their preparation and performances in keeping with the educational procedures, and administrative policies of the public schools.

The college supervisor will make periodic visits to observe the progress being made by the student teachers. Conferences about the progress will be arranged through the building principals and may variously involve both student and cooperating instructors, principals, and the supervisor.

The increasing enrollment at the College has made it necessary to expand the student teaching facilities. A similar plan was in operation with the St. Joseph system during the past year.

Dr. Fenner Discusses Alcohol

Here are a few excerpts from an introductory statement to a panel discussion, made by Miss Mildred Fenner, Ph. D., on the timely subject of "Why I Don't Drink." Dr. Fenner was graduated with honors from this College with the class of 1931, and is now editor of the NEA Journal.

She lists four reasons why she does not drink. They are:

(1) . . . because I don't like to taste liquor. So I'll just not cultivate the taste.

(2) . . . because I can't afford to financially. I'd rather spend my money for church, community chest, and other worthwhile agencies—even furniture stores.

(3) . . . because alcohol is destructive, and I want my life to be constructive.

(4) . . . because, like all human beings, I have the immortality of influence. And I want this influence to be for good.

Dr. Fenner believes that failure to abstain from using alcoholic beverages at social functions may tend to harm other people. " . . . because in yielding to the temptation to conform socially, against my principles, I may have deprived someone else of the moral support he needed."

The panel discussion was in conjunction with a movement to get Congress to act against alcohol advertising.

You Too May Be Accused

Illegal procedures during tests are a problem on this campus as well as on most others, it seems. This matter was brought to the writer's attention in a form slightly different from usual, on a recent occasion. There was an outburst in a particular class by a full time student who proclaimed that summer students were taking an unusual advantage of the illegal procedures.

Several of the seemingly honest summer students took affront to this statement, and justifiably so, it would seem. Our conglomeration of humanity on this campus is not much different from that in any other group. We have sliders and people who seek the easy way out, as does every walk of life.

Quite obviously the full-time student who made the charge was not too much interested at the time of the dishonest incident, or he would have made the charge at that time. However an affront like this one should be taken on an individual basis. If it doesn't pertain to you, shrug it off; if the shoe does happen to fit, you'll just have to suffer.

The writer's opinion tends to be that no particular group should or could be singled out for this crime.

If any of the student body has further comments on this subject, please drop your signed statements on the editor's desk in the office of the Northwest-Missourian.

The Stroller . . .

It would seem that Dr. Sterling Surrey did not like people to leave an assembly. Just before last week's performance the Stroller saw one of his friends on the other side of the auditorium and decided to go sit by the friend. As he strolled by the back door of the auditorium, Dr. Surrey commented gruffly in his ear, "Yer going the wrong way, Bud."

Another amusing incident happened at the same assembly. When Stanley Kimes entered, one of the girls handed him a program for his own performance.

Ever hear of an electric bottle cutter? The Stroller viewed one for the first time in his life, in the I. A. electric shop. Isn't it amazing what is built in some of the classes around this institution?

A word to the wise is sufficient—so—if you use the new shelter house in the College Park, use only the authorized parking area and clean up when you are finished.

Do you like to relax with some good music? Tuesday evening at 6:00 o'clock in the Lakeview Room is a good place to do just that very thing. The Stroller attended the first session of Hi-fi music presented by Mr. Donald Sanford. Yessir, it is a real enjoyable way to relax after a good meal in Mrs. Burke's establishment.

The Stroller observed a couple of the co-eds playing tennis after 8:00 one night last week. What do you gals use—Radar?

The other evening when the Stroller stopped at Residence Hall to chat with the receptionist in the lobby, he discovered a bridge party in full swing. It seems that three ladies are regular bridge players, and their nightly concern is to recruit a fourth for the bridge game.

They're Talking About . . .

Grabau planting flowers and motoring about on the Ford tractor . . . No more chances to drop classes . . . Having another square dance soon . . . Members of the faculty and office staff going abroad . . . Possibility of cooling watermelons in the showers of Residence Hall.

The sticky, gooey oil on the College streets . . . 40 or 50 references . . . The occasional flash of fellows' bare legs when they sport their shorts . . . A parade of musical instruments being prepared by the students of Mu. 113 . . . The capitalists in the Quad who can afford to keep cool with window fans . . . The student who lost her shoe in the goo.

Archaeological Study Reveals Greatness of Ancient Nation

THE SECRET OF THE HITTITES, by C. W. Ceram. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 1956. Pages, 281.

By Dr. Frank Grube

Occasionally someone comes along who has the combined knowledge and writing skill to popularize a highly specialized field of research. Such a person is Paul Kruij, who has been bringing the latest medical discoveries to the public for a quarter of a century. Similarly in 1952, C. W. Ceram, pen name of the archaeologist Kurt W. Marek, appeared on the best seller lists as the author of a popular yet accurate work acceptable to scholars in the field which it covered, archeology. The name of this book is GODS, GRAVES, and SCHOLARS. Now another book has been written by this author, again a highly commendable popularization of a very narrow, controversial segment of archaeological, philological, and historic scholarship with the title THE SECRET OF THE HITTITES. However, I do not expect to see the title on the best seller lists this time.

Following the detective-story pattern employed by the usual popular book on scientific research, THE SECRET OF THE HITTITES attempts to keep the reader interested by disclosing successive steps in the solution of the problems involved. Ceram has worked hard at this task of building up the mystery and the suspense, and then eulogizing the eventual triumph, and I think he has done it well. The trouble is that there are two stories running at the same time: the story of the accomplishments of the archaeologists and philologists as they solved one problem after another, and the story of the Hittites themselves as it is received by the ingenious work of the scholars. This duality of theme should prove enough of an irritant to the casual reader to prevent any record

Problems Are Well Defined

The problems and questions surrounding the Hittites are well defined and well developed in the book. With the discovery in the early nineteenth century of extensive ruins in Asia Minor bearing inscriptions similar to writings turning up over a wide area the first question arose. What nation, unaccounted for by nineteenth century historians, could have left such remains indicating great power? The connection with the Bible-mentioned Hittites was met with scoffing on the heretofore level which scholars can and too frequently attain. At this stage, the two major activities were the outdoors one of excavating remains of this civilization about seventy of which have been uncovered throughout Asia Minor and the indoors work of deciphering the writing.

That then was the second problem: reading the inscriptions. Several kinds of writing were found, one of which was well known. Tablets in this writing clearly indicated that the writers were true of the nation known as the Hittites. However, this writing was phonetic, and therefore gave little indication of the language spoken by these people.

What Was the Language?

That was the third problem. What was the language? As cuneiform and hieroglyphic inscriptions were slowly deciphered through the late nineteenth and early twentieth century, evidence piled up that the language was related to the Indo-European group. When finally a bilingual tablet was founded that yielded a key to the Hittite script, complete corroboration came of the Indo-European nature of the language.

The presence of an Indo-European tongue in this part of the ancient world at so early a date (Continued on Page Three)

New Shelter House Is Built in College Park

Perfect for picnics and outings during the summer is the newly built shelter house at College Park.

Rustic Shelter House Is Made Of Local Native Hedge Posts

A new shelter house has been added to the facilities of the College Park. Other attractions are the four fireplaces and tables with wheels for ease in movement.

The shelter house is approximately twenty-four by forty feet. It is constructed of native hedge posts which were cut near the Park. Future plans call for a fire place and shelter wings to be added, as labor permits.

The College Park has a few interesting points in its history. In the days before it became known as the College Park it was used as Chautauqua grounds. About 1920, several cabins were added to house students. Since that time various uses have come to these cabins. Houses were made by combining some of them for use by faculty members and others became sheep sheds, chicken houses, and garages. Over the years they were used by such organizations as the C.C.C. and the Y.W.C.A.

Today, aside from the picnic facilities, a portion of the park is used by several students who have parked their trailer houses on the grounds.

President J. W. Jones requests all who use the facilities of the Park to use only the authorized parking areas and to clean up when they are finished.

haps as early as 2,000 B. C.) requires explanation. This fourth problem is not yet settled: where did these people come from?

Power Matched That of Babylon
The fifth problem involved the history of the Hittites as revealed by the discoveries of these archaeologists and by the writings of neighboring people, as in the Old Testament and in the Egyptian accounts. Reevaluation of the history of the second millennium before Christ has followed these revelations of a power that matched that of Babylon and Egypt for five hundred years or more.

Strange that so great a nation should have been almost completely obliterated from the memory of man for three thousand years! It is Ceram's ability to pervade his account with this mystery that gives the book its charm.

No Swimming Masks!

Bill Baldwin, city recreation director, says the swimming mask, a tightly fit device that covers the face and nose in a nearly air-tight compartment, has been barred from the Maryville swimming pool.

He wouldn't mention any names, but said the action came after several swimmers "somehow cut themselves."

Other equipment, snorkels and feet flippers, for example, are still permissible, Baldwin advised.

Scholar Tree Is Rain Tree's Mate

By Maurice Sullivan

One of our most interesting trees, the Chinese scholar tree, will begin blooming near the end of this semester. The Chinese scholar tree, which grows on the west side of the front walk near the street, is known to be more than nineteen years old.

According to an account given by President Emeritus Uel W. Lamkin to Dr. Irene Mueller, seeds of the scholar tree were collected from a tree on the grounds of the emperor's palace in Peking, China. The seeds were brought to the University of Missouri, where they were started. Two of the trees were then presented to each state college.

When the mate of the Chinese scholar tree on this campus died, a St. Joseph lady gave the college a Golden rain tree to take the place of the dead tree. The Golden rain tree, as stated in a previous article, is located on the east side of the front walk near the street, and the Chinese scholar tree is located on the opposite side of the walk.

The Chinese scholar tree, also known as the Pagoda tree or the Japanese Pagoda tree, is known to biologists as Sophora japonica. Sophora is a genus of flowering trees and shrubs which belong to the pea family. The species japonica is native to China and Japan. Its blooming period varies from July to September, according to the climate in which it is located.

The Chinese scholar tree on this campus has large panicles or clusters of creamy, pea-like blossoms, usually in the first part of August. This species of Sophora is sensitive to cold weather, and according to some authorities would not be considered hardy twenty miles north of Maryville.

Kansas City Athletics Begin Second Season in Major League

Baseball fans in this area have an opportunity to see major league baseball just one hundred miles away as Kansas City is well under way in their second season in the major leagues. Injuries have plagued the Athletics this season so far, but they are finally getting their first string in the ball game.

Although the Athletics are fighting to get out of the cellar position in the American league, they are winning nearly half of their games since getting their best fielded team playing.

Harry Simpson is the only Athletic who is in the top ten in runs batted in. He is placed third now in the runs batted in division. The pitching has been relatively poor and the hitting the same, but now they are receiving good support.

With the Athletics needing all the support they can get from the fans in Missouri and the surrounding states, go down for a game now and then. Below is their schedule of remaining games of this season.

Students Must Observe Regulations Regarding Golf and Tennis Play

Students this summer may play golf at the Maryville Country Club on every day except Thursday until 4 o'clock, Saturday afternoons, holidays, and Sundays. Anyone wanting to play on Saturday afternoons and holidays, and Sundays must pay green fees before playing.

All students who are interested in playing golf may obtain a golf permit from Dr. H. D. Peterson's office in the gym. Everyone must have a permit before he can play. Students who have already received their permit are Leola Rager, Basil Churchill, Donna Thompson, Frank Thompson, Dan

Some of the other regulations of the golf course are as follows:

1. Girls wearing high heel shoes are prohibited from playing on course.
2. No group larger than foursome is allowed to play on the course together.
3. College students are not allowed to loaf in the clubhouse.
4. Replace all torn turf.
5. Observe the rules of golf and play accordingly.
6. Use only the putter on the greens.
7. College students are urged never to "cut across" on club members or to be discourteous to them.
8. Any student caught in the lake will be barred from the course.
9. All balls which are found and have names on them must be turned in at the club house.
10. All students must sign in before starting the round at the

Any students who are interested in playing softball this summer will have an opportunity to do so. The College can have a softball team which will be in a city league here in Maryville, if enough are interested. Anyone interested should contact Glen Wehrkamp.

Students should be taking advantage of the recreational facilities of the College pool this summer. The pool is now open for co-recreation. It would be a good place to cool off on these hot summer days.

Charlie Adair has registered with the St. Joseph Tennis Club to play this summer. Members are numbered and they challenge the players above them in order to move up.

Card playing in the Den surely dropped off this summer. Where are all the bridge and hearts players?

Square dance was enjoyed by all who attended. The next square dance will be held June 28. Come on out for a hoe down country style.

Baseball can be watched in Maryville at Beal Park when the Merchants play this summer. The Merchants finished last season with a 1-6 record. Some College students will participate again this summer.

club house.

11. Not more than two students should play from the same set of clubs.

Students who wish to play tennis may do so any hour of the day except when Coach Milner's tennis class is in operation. It is hoped that tennis may be played in the evenings under the lights before long.

Regulations on the tennis courts are:

1. Only rubber soled shoes with no heels are to be worn on the tennis courts.
2. Students and Faculty are asked to use a court for a maximum of one hour when others are waiting to play.
3. The courts are limited to the use of students and faculty and their guests.

Pool Now Open Two Days Weekly

With the hot weather finally hitting hard, the swimming pool will be open to all students, faculty, and their families who wish to cool off. The pool is located in the College gymnasium and will be open on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 4 until 5:30.

The pool should be used for fun, health, and pleasure. Life guards will be on duty at these hours, also for the convenience of the swimmers. It is requested that children be accompanied by their parents.
